Waterfront: a post-Ottoman post-socialist story

2018, Serbia/Germany
dir. Miloš Jovanović, Miloš Miletić, Mirjana Radovanović

55 minutes, in English and Serbian
(Serbian parts with English subtitles)

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 2019 / 3:30 PM TO 5:30 PM /
BUILDING: NADOR U. 15, ROOM 103

SYNOPSIS: / The film explores the folding of 19th and 21st century capitalism on the city of Belgrade and its waterfront. What does it mean to call upon de-Ottomanization in the era of post-socialism? What visions of civilization and progress does that bring? Whose stories does it erase? Upon whose backs is the waterfront made? And what is to be done?

ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION: / The discussion with the three film directors will be moderated by Céline Cantat from Center for Policy Studies. Further comments/insights will be offered by Csaba Jelinek from the Hungarian Academy of Sciences and Periféria Policy and Research Center, and Astrea Pejović who is a PhD Candidate at the Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology.
